1. PURPOSE

This policy outlines the principles, authorities, procedures and practice guidelines that direct the development and implementation process for CLBC policies. It clarifies the roles of CLBC and the Ministry of Housing and Social Development (MHSD) in the CLBC policy development process.

2. DEFINITIONS

CLBC Policy Glossary: A central list of commonly used terms and definitions which are utilized consistently throughout CLBC policies.

Executive Sponsor: A member of the CLBC senior management team who has ongoing responsibility for the implementation of a policy.

Governance Policy: CLBC policy that has significance for the CLBC Board of Directors in its governance role to oversee the conduct of the organization’s business.

Operational Policy: CLBC policy that provides specific direction, procedures, and practices for staff in both service delivery areas and administrative programs including Communications, Corporate Services, Human Resources, Information and Technology, and Quality Assurance.

Shareholder’s Letter of Expectation: An agreement between the Shareholder (Government) and CLBC on the respective roles and responsibilities of each including high level performance expectations, public policy requirements and strategic priorities.

3. POLICY

CLBC policies are based on the vision, mandate, mission and values of the organization.

CLBC policy is directed by and developed in accordance with government expectations. It must reflect broad service standards and policy direction set by MHSD in the Shareholder’s Letter of Expectations. CLBC’s role is to develop and implement policy in response to this broad direction.
CLBC policy must also be linked with those of other social service and health ministries, especially when policies may affect individuals and families involved in multiple service systems. This will ensure a consistent corporate policy development and implementation approach in government sponsored services.

Policy is developed in consultation with staff, individuals, families, community service providers, and government ministries that are affected by the policy. Policies will be distributed as relevant to individuals, families and the public to help them to better understand what to expect from CLBC, its vision, and its supports and services.

CLBC’s policy development and implementation process is based on a consistent set of expectations including identification, approval, development, communication, training and review.

CLBC will evaluate existing policies to ensure that supports and services meet the evolving needs of the people supported and to ensure accountability to them, communities, and government.

4. PROCEDURES

Implementation

4.11 New and revised policy will be circulated in an open, consistent, and timely way to ensure that people, both within and external to CLBC, are made aware of it. Policy affecting external stakeholders will be accompanied by a strategic communications plan.

• CLBC staff will receive information on new or revised policies in advance of their public release.
• All related CLBC communications affected by a policy change will be amended when the policy is released.
• MHSD consultation will be included in the strategic communications plan.

4.12 Staff will receive training about the background, rationale, and application of new or revised policy, as needed. The training plan will consider:

• which staff and management should receive the training
• the training delivery method which should be utilized including workshops, conferences, online courses, and on the job training
• the ongoing learning needs of staff regarding the application of policy

4.13 When policy is released or revised, it will be dated and a specific person identified as the contact to respond to questions about the policy.

4.14 Policies will be organized within a master policy index and ordered with a numbering system.

6. PRACTICE

6.1 CLBC policies will be presented using clear, concise language, with similar presentation styles and tone. While acknowledging the diversity of operations and functions within CLBC, the objective is to make the tone, style, language and formatting of policy and guidelines as consistent as possible.

6.2 Most policies include some flexibility in their application, so where possible they should not be rigidly worded. Technical language and acronyms will be used sparingly and only to the extent necessary to explain the policy. Acronyms should be spelled out the first time they are used. Definitions of technical terms will be included where appropriate.

6.3 Where applicable, polices will encourage a culture of local problem solving and creativity to allow for flexible approaches that are responsive to individual circumstances and choice.

6.4 Policy is intended to guide CLBC operations, support good judgment and thoughtful, creative responses to individual circumstances.
