2) What is the Buzz?

- The Registered Disability Savings Plan (RDSP) applications for this fiscal need to be submitted by March 2009. At present, only the Bank of Montreal (BMO) is offering the RDSP. An eligible person must first create a profile at a BMO branch, which requires 2 pieces of identification, one with a picture, and call their central office at 1-800-665-7700 to set up the RDSP. Go to <http://rdsp.com/> for more information.
- Vancouver Foundation News Release – The Province is providing a $5-million grant to the Vancouver Foundation to help British Columbians with disabilities increase their savings for the future, announced Rich Coleman, Minister of Housing and Social Development. When British Columbians on income assistance open an RDSP with $25, they can apply to receive a $150 grant from the Endowment 150 fund. In addition, the federal government will provide a grant of $525 and $1,000 federal bond. Within one year, clients can earn $1,700 plus interest from their original investment of just $25. Beginning in fall 2009, the Endowment 150 fund will be available to clients who receive income assistance anytime between January 1, 2008, and December 31, 2009, and are eligible for the federal government’s Disability Tax Credit.
- Waitlists Issue - The “End Waitlist” campaign was discussed. See the BCACL website for details www.bcacl.org.

- Building a Sustainable Future – Peter attended this workshop that was presented by MHSD and CLBC. The disability strategy that was presented at workshop is to provide for a comprehensive and integrated system of supports and services for persons with disabilities. MHSD stressed the development of personal wealth through RDSPs and other sources as a way of assisting PWDDs. The workshop also placed much reliance on families supporting PWDDs as the gap between the cost of overall needs and government funding increases and waitlists grow.
